This allergen list includes the eight major food allergens identified by the United States Food and Drug Administration (FDA): eggs, fish, milk, peanuts, shellfish, soy, tree nuts and wheat. Since soybean oil is highly refined, which removes the allergenic soy protein, the FDA does not require foods that contain soybean oil to be listed as a soy allergen. Although soy lecithin is a refined oil, research has shown it may contain trace amounts of soy protein. For this reason, items that contain soy lecithin are marked as containing "soybeans."

This allergen list is compiled based on menu item information provided to Taco John's International, Inc. (TJI) by food manufacturers as of the date of publication. Allergens for limited time offers, test products and regional items may not be included. There is no guarantee that cross-contact with other allergens will not occur. TJI, its franchisees and their respective employees, do not assume responsibility for a particular sensitivity or allergy to any food provided in our restaurants.

When checking for allergens, it is important to note that all of our fried menu items are cooked using shared frying oil. For example, Potato Olés® are fried in the same fryer as Crunchy Chicken and Churros. This may cause a menu item to come in contact with an allergen from the other menu item.

Menu items served in Taco John's® restaurants that are co-branded with Steak Escape or Good Times Burgers & Custard may come in contact with allergens from the other brand, such as peanut oil in the fryers of Steak Escape restaurants and peanuts used in treat preparation in Good Times restaurants. Giant Goldfish® Grahams is a registered trademark of Pepperidge Farms.

This list may not be published or distributed in any manner without the written consent of TJI.
